

JCPH BRIDGE CLINIC

Medication Therapy for Opioid Use Disorder
at Jefferson County Public Health

Jefferson County Public Health's (JCPH) Bridge Clinic is a low barrier, harm-reduction based clinic for the treatment of opioid use disorder with suboxone and naltrexone. We are designed to be a short-term program (initiation to maintenance) that "bridges" patients to long-term care with community providers.

A low-barrier, non-abstinence based, harm reduction program

Medication therapy with suboxone or naltrexone

Referrals available for mental health support — counseling is strongly encouraged, but not required

Case management is available on-site and is a standard part of intake and follow-up visits

How to refer a patient to the Bridge Clinic

- Clients can come to the walk-in clinic on Tuesday mornings or call to make an appointment.
- Providers can directly refer by completing a digital referral form and fax.

Who to refer

- We accept Medicaid, United and Blue Cross/Blue Shield Insurance.
- We do not offer services to adolescents or pregnant patients, but we can assist in connecting these patients to specialized MOUD programs.
